County Bond Issue Proposal Includes B-W Parkway Interchange; 95 Overpass

by Elaine Skolnik

Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening unveiled a $117 million bond issue proposal on March 19. If county voters in November approve the bond offering, the greatest portion of the money will be spent on 29 road projects. The proposals, touted as the "largest ever issued by the county," cover almost every area including Greenbelt, Bowie and Laurel.

Glendening said a positive response by the electorate will permit the county "to stay ahead of problems resulting from the great surge of residential and commercial construction we are now experiencing. In designing the roads program we have put particular emphasis on serving new and future growth areas."

The road-building program in the county totals $157 million—$82 million financed by the county and another $75 million leveraged through a series of agreements with the State of Maryland and private developers.

"Added to the State and County road construction already underway or programmed to begin shortly, this brings our roads program to more than $800 million," observed Glendening, adding, "This will assure that Prince Georges County maintains its preeminent position in the Washington metropolitan area in regard to the adequacy of highway transportation."

In East Greenbelt, Glendening targeted the Baltimore-Washington Parkway for improvement. The longstanding problem in the north-eastern quadrant of the Parkway interchange across from Greenway Center is expected to be alleviated by relocating the ramps. Reconstruction of the Greenbelt Road overpass spanning the Parkway is also included in the project.

Over the past decade development in East Greenbelt has been booming. The city has tried to keep the lid on further development there until roads adequate to handle the increased traffic are in place. Thus Coakley and Williams, Inc., developers of Maryland Trade Center Park, were asked to sign covenants with the city in 1981 when they sought annexation, tying actual construction on their property to the completion of a supporting road system.

Of major concern to council was the timetable for widening of Greenbelt Road with reconstruction of the Parkway overpass and new exit ramps. These concerns were compounded as plans for development of the Tidler and Smith-Ewing tracts became a reality and after the county executive's department revealed its intention to use special revenue bonds to help a developer construct Sunrise Village, a 478-unit apartment complex next to Goddard Space Village and the Beltway.

An angry city council then began a series of meetings with Glendening and his representatives to address the issue of county-city relations. Emphasis was on the city's desire (1) for a timetable for completion of planned road construction, (2) for the county to make funds available for reconstruction of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway overpass if federal funds were delayed and (3) for the county to notify the city before offering special inducements to develop-

Proposed Changes in Council Election Procedures Discussed in Public Hearing

by Diane Oberg

On Tuesday, March 25, the Greenbelt City Council held a public hearing on proposed changes to the city's election procedures. The proposals, made by Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and citizens Steve Curtis and Keith Chernikoff, included changes to the election date, the council term, the registration system and the procedure for selecting the mayor, as well as a proposal to limit campaign spending.

Universal Registration

The proposal receiving the most citizen support was Curtis' proposal to introduce a universal registration system.

Under the current dual registration system, a resident must register separately with the city and the county. Under a universal registration system, a city resident who registered with the county board of elections would be eligible to vote in all city, county, state and national elections.

Curtis called dual registration a "barrier" to full voter participation, noting that such dual registration is allowed in only five states. He rejected the argument that dual registration includes all those who "really care" about the city, saying that in a democracy there is no reason to exclude people from voting.

City Manager James K. Giese said there were 10,977 city residents registered with the county at the time of the 1985 city election, and 3,222 people registered with the city. He said that from a candidates viewpoint this meant that, of every 10 people contacted using the city list, six would probably vote, while if the county lists were used only two of every 10 contacted would be likely to vote.

No non-council members spoke in support of dual registration. Six citizens spoke in favor of universal registration with several describing conversations with people unaware of the need to register twice.

Weidenfeld said the city advertises, in the News Review and in the newsletters of the various Greenbelt communities, that it is necessary to register separately with the city in order to vote in council elections.

Bob Zugby had a different perspective. Although voter registration has not increased as the city has grown, he doubted that the problem was the result of any lack of opportunity to register to vote but rather that citizens outside the core of Greenbelt do not "feel a part" of the city.

City Clerk Gudrun Mills suggested maintaining the city voter lists, but allowing those on the county lists to vote if they can present proof of residence.

None of the council members supported universal registration, although not all expressed definite views. Councilmember Antoinette M. Bram said universal registration causes a very large increase in election costs for a very small increase in total votes cast. She noted, however, that registration ends before the campaigns really get started and suggested that the books be kept open longer. Weidenfeld and Councilmember Edward Putens also opposed the proposal.

Districts or At-Large

Chernikoff suggested that the council structure be examined. Currently the five council members are elected "at-large" with all voters allowed to vote for five candidates. Chernikoff suggested using a mixture of at-large and district voting to obtain the best features of both systems. Eunice Coxon and Barry Schlessinger supported this proposal. Werner Neupert supported the concept although he felt now might not be the time to introduce it.

Jose Morales favored district elections saying that if districts were chosen based on either pop-

Greenbelt Arts Center Elects Nicholas Mydra President

The six-year-old Greenbelt Arts Center elected its second president, Nicholas Mydra, at its annual meeting on March 26.

A member of the Board of Directors at the Center, Mydra has been House Manager and works with the Roosevelt Center Merchants Association. He also handled a variety of duties at the theatre and was instrumental in the Salute to Our Volunteers party last year.

In his brief remarks after the election, Mydra stressed one promise: that next year's membership meeting would be too big to meet in the lobby and would be held in the theater. Also, he strongly reminded his audience that a community theater must have the support of many hands from the city and nearby. He pointed out that there are many ways—both at the theater and in their own homes—that people wishing to help the Arts Center can be of service. Volunteers can always leave their names and phone numbers at 441-8770 and someone will return their calls and answer any questions.

Other new officers include John Ward as vice-president, Gail Voigt as treasurer, and Beatrix Whitehall as secretary (Lindley Darden as acting secretary until June).

Besides the current play, the Arts Center is providing Children Workshop Showcase (a production by children currently taking drama lessons at the Center) in May, a Greenbelt Concert Band program on May 4, and the three-week production of "Harvey" in late May. The Fourth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair will be held on May 31.

Outgoing president Konrad Herling, who envisioned an Arts Center in Greenbelt in 1979 and led the efforts to rent the theater and develop the GAC, stressed that Greenbelt's citizens need to support the Arts Center and the other entities in the shopping center which has, since the town's founding, been the center of life in the town. Despite many obstacles, the theater continues to grow in diversity and draw larger audiences and favorable reviews for its productions. Aside from becoming an Arts Center member or giving time to some special need at the Center, people can show support through public projects such as last years charrette and current plans to complete that event and begin the actual renewal of the Roosevelt Center.

New Board members Adele Mund and the Rev. Dan Hamlin join Tom Schreiber, Marie Tounsignant, Fann Kash, Jeff Beyrent, Konrad Herling and Ken Voigt. Any one of these people can be contacted by citizens wanting to know more about Arts Center activities and needs.

Beverly Fonda

Former Greenbelter Beverly G. Fonda, 74, died of a heart ailment March 20 at Georgetown Hospital. He lived at Rossmoor Leisure World in Silver Spring.

Mr. Fonda was a retired art director from the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory. A native of Chicago, he attended the Art Institute of Chicago and the American Academy of Art. During World War II, he served with the Navy Construction Battalions and was stationed in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Fonda was a founder and had been president of the board of the Greenbelt Youth Center.

He is survived by his wife, Lucile, of Silver Spring, sons Roy D., Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Richard W., Bellingham, Wash., and 5 grandchildren.

Ellen E. Harvey

Ellen E. Harvey of Greenbelt died suddenly in Florida on January 10. She received her Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Columbia University in New York and her doctorate from the University of Oregon. Dr. Harvey lived in Greenbelt for 30 years and taught at the University of Maryland. She was head of the Recreation Department when she retired in 1975. She was involved in volunteer work with the Prince Georges County Red Cross and with Meals on Wheels in Greenbelt.

A family memorial was held on March 22 in Connecticut and interment will take place at a later date. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the University of Maryland, c/o Recreation Department, Ellen Harvey Memorial Fund, College Park, Md. 20742.

Registration for PGCC Classes at Roosevelt Begin

Prince Georges Community College will offer summer courses at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Registration for Summer session I classes at Eleanor Roosevelt begins April 1 at the Largo Campus. A special on-site registration is scheduled at Eleanor Roosevelt, May 21, from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. Currently enrolled students may register by calling 22-0998.

Credit courses offered include: Principles of Accounting I, Business Mathematics, Statistics, Composition I: Expository Writing, Introduction to Speech Communication, Business Organization, Fundamentals of Real Estate and Introduction to Computer/Data Processing.

For additional information, call 22-0783.

Elizabeth Heinonen

Eliizabeth Heinonen, 89, of Greenbelt, died of a stroke at Doctor's Hospital March 29. Survivors are brothers, Ferdinand Schwartz, of Greenbelt; Charles, Lincoln, NE; Woodrow, Hawaii; one sister, Pauline Snyder of KC, K.

Services were held Sunday, March 30, 7:30 p.m. at Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church. Burial will be at Acacia Park Cemetery, Chicago, Ill. April 4.

Greenway Center Sponsors Child Identification Event

Greenway Center will be among nearly 3000 shopping centers in the U.S. and Canada taking part in the first public service campaign ever undertaken by the shopping center industry. The centers are cooperating in KIDS—Kids Identification Sign-Up—a weeklong event from April 7 to 13 during which young people will voluntarily come in for fingerprinting.

Greenway Center will fingerprint children from 2-5 p.m. on Friday, April 11 and Saturday, April 12. The Greenbelt Golden Age Club will assist the merchants in fingerprinting. The service is free, and parents are asked to keep the prints in case of an emergency.

The local effort is part of a national campaign being organized by the International Council of Shopping Centers, the association of the shopping center industry, as a contribution to the growing child safety movement.

Parents of children between the ages of 3 and 14 are being encouraged to bring them in for fingerprinting, and will receive, along with their child's prints, safety tips which help parents teach children how to deal with strangers.

T-Ball Season Starts

Parents interested in having their child play T-ball (co-sponsored by St. Hugh's C.Y.O. and Greenbelt Little League) may still sign up by contacting Mary Anne Eley at 474-6663 or Tom Windsor at 441-9478.

The season will begin April 7 with practices at various city ballfields. A nominal fee is required.

T-ball follows most of the basic rules of baseball. Fundamental skills are taught by the coaches. The batter hits the ball off a stationary stand which can be adjusted to the player's height. A soft cloth ball, known as a rag ball, is used to prevent injury and maximize player confidence and skill development.

Library Bookstore Open

The new bookstore at the Greenbelt Public Library is now open five days a week, thanks to a strong response by volunteers eager to help the Friends of the Greenbelt Library in this new venture.

Hours are 7-9 p.m. Monday, 10-12 noon on Tuesday and Thursday, 1-3 p.m. on Wednesday and Saturday. The bookstore is closed on Friday.

The store, on the lower level by the showcases, sells new and used books and magazines discarded by the library or donated to the Friends group. Library bags and other items are for sale, and records and other things will be added as the store refines its operation. Donations of books to the Friends can be given to library staff or brought to the store when it is open. There is a sign-up sheet for volunteers wishing to help in the store (or in the library in general) at the bookshop.

Help is needed—donations as well as helping hands—at the Saturday, April 26, book sale. The Friends will sell books, magazines and records donated to them (proceeds go to projects at the Greenbelt branch) alongside the larger sale scheduled by the County library system for this branch on that day. Donations of baked goods can be brought after 9 a.m. For information, call Barbara Simon at 474-2192.

Easter Egg Hunt on Cable

The latest production from the staff at Channel A-10 is the 1986 Easter Egg Hunt. This annual event, sponsored by the Department of Recreation, is held at the "Buddy" Attick Park. The 1986 hunt will be cablecast on Channel A-10 on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 8 and 9, at 7:30 p.m. It will also include a few scenes from the Reptile World's program "Snakes-N-Stuff."

GHI NOTES

The GHI Board of Directors will meet tonight, April 3 at 8 p.m. in the GHI Board Room. Agenda items include the larger homes rehab, the personnel policy, Mutual Ownership Contract procedures and the tree policy.

The Finance Committee will meet Tuesday, April 8 at 8 p.m. in the GHI Board Room.

Free blood pressure testing will be offered from 2-4 p.m. on Wednesday, April 9 in GHI offices on Hamilton Place.

GHI will hold a hearing about the museum proposal on Thursday, April 10 at 8 p.m. in City Council Chambers.

Sr. Citizen Softball Begins

The season has started for senior citizen softball. Anyone, male or female, who would like to participate in softball activity, please come to practice Monday, April 10, at 10 a.m. at Braden Field. Bring a glove. If Monday is not a good time, call Tony Pisano at 474-7841 or Burt Kerr 474-9498. This is a very flexible group.

Utopia Cast Includes Several New Players

Edward Albee's engrossing drama "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" continues Friday and Saturdays, April 4 through 12, at the Utopia Theater.

Beginning at 8 p.m., the performances feature five people with varied backgrounds. Jeff Siegler appeared here most recently in Arsenic and Old Lace. Donna Engleman has been with the Prince Georges Community College's Hallam Players for two years. James Pegg is a newcomer to Greenbelt audiences, as is Pennell Somsen, who has acted locally and in Minneapolis/St. Paul.

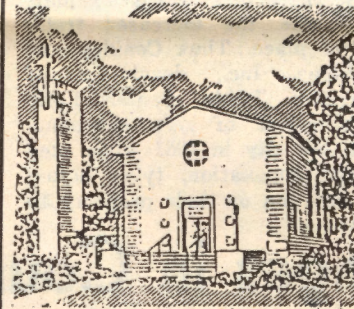

Roxi Lamb coaches actors and gives workshops in acting and communications. She has been seen at the Lazy Susan Dinner Theater, at Foundry Theater and at The Pavilion's grand opening. In Hollywood, she appeared as Jackie Snyder in "General Hospital" and in the TV Movie-of-the-Week "Disaster on the Coastliner."

This Greenbelt Players production is directed by Laurie Wagner. Stage Manager is Mary Spencer and lighting is by Lester Rushin III. Tom Schreiber directed set construction.

My Two Cents . . .

Everything I buy seems to add to my frustrations. This Memory-writer merely adds to those frustrations in that the cotton pickin' thing takes off on its own if you lean on the wrong key by mistake. There is no stopping its race across the page while you try to get ahead of it and throw the switch or pull the plug. It's no use and you throw away another two sheets of paper. I should have stayed with the old Remington except that my rhythm is gone and one letter prints too light and the next goes through the nylon ribbon. It's this or nothing and I'll lick it yet.

Ma says I might not want to run the world but I can't resist throwing in my 2c worth now and then. "I'll settle for that — for now."

I really enjoyed the responses in the March 20 issue and Steve Langone gave me a good chuckle . . . nice going Steve. I too am getting a little weary taking others' hands off of my wallet.

And Eunice, why aren't you against a museum? I don't want to contribute to something in a museum that is younger than I am for Pete's sake. Let's wait until Greenbelt reaches its 100th anniversary and I promise to contribute $100 to it then and vote for its establishment then. That's the best I can do. But it cannot be in one of the Greenbelt homes even then. I would not wish to be accused of discrimination after turning down others' appeals. It just wouldn't be morally right, I think.

If I may comment on the changes in election procedures. I am always a little leary of politicians telling me that if this change is made it will be good for me. Whooooee! How's that again? Good for whom? What appears to be happening is somebody is beginning to run scared but I can't put my finger on the threat. Some of those I voted for last time are not going to get me again. Any dern fool can spend money — what I want is somebody who can show me how they can stretch a buck to get full value for a dollar spent.

If those in charge get their way, we are going to have the largest police force in the county with the most modern vehicles (sitting idle out back I might say) with a million dollar facility with two acres of ground around it. One thing in their favor is that the guys won't want to leave it and go home where it might not be so comfortable. That's livin' pretty high-on-the-hog, fellows.

That would be bad enough but here we have more space than we know what to do with at the North End School with more than enough parking facilities, but that's not good enough.

Now to top it all off, GHI is going to demolish some of the strongest structures in the city, which would probably cost over 100,000 dollars to replace instead of offering them on the market and make a little off of them and give somebody else a home that they could afford to fix up themselves.

Looking to the future, I expect we may be able to sell the North End School back to the County now that we are going to employ a gang more of teachers.

Seriously, for a moment there is ample evidence that "our" police force has improved tremendously under the leadership of Chief Hutson and it is the best that I've seen in the 43 years that I've been residing here. Thanks, Chief? There has been a great improvement in attitudes, which are all important in every aspect of life.

Brochure Mentions Museum

A recent letter in the News Review stated that support for a Greenbelt museum was not mentioned in the bond issue referendum.

I was a fairly new resident of the city at the time of the bond issue referendum, so I was very interested in it. There was a brochure entitled "Looking to the Future" which was distributed to all residents. This brochure was about the bond issue referendum and what the money was to be used for.

In the brochure under the heading "Public Building Improvements", there were discussions about plans for the police station, youth center addition, public works building expansion, North End school, remodeling the municipal building, and a city museum. The museum section read:

City Museum

"Greenbelt will celebrate its 50th anniversary in 1987. A citizen committee already is planning for this event. One of the committee's objectives is to establish a small museum to preserve memorabilia relating to the history of the city and its establishment by the Federal Government as a model planned community. A proposal being considered is the purchase of a GHI duplex, with one unit being restored to the way a typical home looked when first occupied, and the other unit being used for displays and office space."

"While the bond issue proposal authorizes funds to be expended for acquiring a museum building, other sources of funding for this project will be sought as well."

Elizabeth Jay

Favors A Second

I was instrumental in the referendum which brought us the Green Ridge House. Although I have never lived there, I feel its benefits to the older citizens of Greenbelt are obvious to all.

I would like to recommend that we establish another home similar to Green Ridge between St. Hugh's Catholic Church and the Pepco power station. This would provide access to Greenbelt Lake for a refreshing change that is not available at the present.

Anthony Madden

Two Sides of the Question

I welcome Steve Langone's letter of response in the March 20 News Review. It looks as if we planned it this way, but we didn't. Nevertheless, it is a great way for all our citizens to see at least two sides of the question of a tax-exempt Senior Citizen Co-op Apartment Building on Parcel 12 in Greenbelt.

1) I believe one hundred individuals and couples living in such a building, and their families, many of whom will also be living in Greenbelt, will get much more happiness from such a situation than all Greenbelters would get from leaving the land as it is. The residents would be within waking distance of the shopping center, the library, the swimming pool, the recreation center, three churches and Greenbelt Lake. All of this would be without violating our green belt or bothering the rest of Greenbelt residents.

2) Such a Co-op would not operate for profit, and would be nonprofit in that any increase in land value could not be taken from it. It could not be taken away by departing members. The increase in values will remain with the Co-op. They probably will increase immensely but will be used by the residents, their families and their friends. This will be a source of much satisfaction for all Greenbelters.

3) I don't think good judgment is limited to our Founding Fathers. Certainly today's City Fathers and a big majority of today's Greenbelt citizens can see the great value in taxfree use of this land in such a manner. Tax-exemption will reduce the housing cost, making the project feasible and permitting persons of lower income to live there.

4) Green Ridge House has amply demonstrated the value of a senior citizen apartment building in Greenbelt not only to its residents but also to their families, friends and all other Greenbelt residents. It is setting a good example, at no cost to the city, county or state taxpayers.

5) A for-profit developer of senior citizen housing would choose a more affluent community than Greenbelt for building senior citizen housing today. And the cost of such would be high. A nonprofit senior citizen housing co-op has to result in below-market housing expenses in order to minimize the risks for the original residents and the mortgage lender.

6) Our proposal is directed not to the financially well off, but to Greenbelters who now have a considerable equity in their own fee simple or cooperative home. If they were to sell their homes and switch their equity to the senior citizen co-op, their monthly charges would be in the neighborhood of $300 each month. The larger the down payment the lower the monthly payment.

This certainly would be better for Greenbelt than if they sold out and took their expertise and equity to Florida. Even if they moved to the Charlestowne North Apartments, their equity probably would be invested outside of Greenbelt. Then they might even be tempted to buy part of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Jim Cassels

THANKS

On behalf of the Task Force Against Nuclear Pollution, I would like to share with Greenbelters our appreciation to state Senator Leo Green for his recent help.

Our group was "caught" in the Community Savings & Loan freeze, and met with stonewalling by the Hardship Withdrawal Program when we tried to recover a modest amount to cover basic expenses. Senator Green (with help from his assistant Shelia Padgett) intervened and we finally received enough money to pay our most overdue expenses.

Politicians often (justifiably) catch a lot of flak; I thought it would please people to know about Senator Green's help for us.

Beauty Marred

What is so rare as a day in June, or Springtime in Greenbelt? — AWESOME — This over forty year old city, with well planted flowering trees, spring bushes, and bulbs is a magical fairylend. But, alack and alas, woe are we, with the bursting through of crocuses, tulips, and daffodils the beauty is marred with the wandering dogs leaving their feces here and there and everywhere. Once again we are confronted with the problem. Dog owners, absolutely will have to be reminded of the strict city laws and ordinances. If the rules are not obeyed, the owners will have to face a fine.

Election Procedures Discussed

ulation or county registration lists, there would be two council members from Springhill Lake versus none now.

Giese said that in the 1985 election there were eight candidates, four from the same election precinct, so that if there were five districts at least three more candidates would be needed. While he said it was possible that district elections may bring out more candidates, Giese said that in other municipalities with district elections, there is "more often than not" one candidate per district. Morales said election by district would attract other candidates.

Zugby said districts may be needed later as the city grows, but not now. Weidenfeld also supported the at-large system.

If district elections are to be used, the city must decide how to establish the districts. According to Giese, they must be representative of population and can be based either on census population counts or on voter registration lists. Giese said districts based on population, county registration lists and Greenbelt registration lists would differ markedly.

Four-Year Council Term

Weidenfeld proposed lengthening the council's term to four years to allow continuity in dealing with long-term issues and to decrease the time lost to campaigning. There would be no significant difference in what council did or in accountability, he said, since in recent years all elected council members have served at least four years.

Public opinion, at least among those expressing an opinion, was just about as evenly divided on this issue. Coxon, Schlesinger, Chernikoff and Neupert opposed lengthening the term. The main reason given for opposition was that the shorter term keeps council more responsive to the public.

Zugby favored a four-year term if the terms are staggered, while Morales said the term should be lengthened since council doesn't "get anything done" in two years.

Campaign Spending Limits

Curtis proposed a limit on total campaign spending in order to prevent anyone from buying an election and to focus the campaign on issues rather than advertising. He said a spending limit would not hurt challengers and that the current system favors incumbents.

Zugby, Putens and Isaacs disputed this contention, saying that a limit would hurt newcomers.

Jim Cassels suggested a low limit, with $1,000 as a possible level. He said this would concentrate the campaign on the issues.

Schlesinger, Chernikoff, Neupert and Mayor pro tem Thomas White favored increased disclosure rather than a spending limit. White suggested that in addition to the current requirement to report all contributions over $25, total contributions should be reported and a post-election accounting of expenditures required.

Schlesinger suggested that the campaign disclosure deadline be advanced by four days to allow time for review and reporting of the disclosure reports.

Giese requested that the city staff "not be put in the position of" enforcing campaign spending limits.

Selection of Mayor

Weidenfeld proposed an advisory referendum to guide council in choosing the mayor. This would replace the current system whereby council traditionally has selected the top vote-getter as mayor.

Several citizens spoke against this proposal, saying they saw no benefit to justify complicating the ballot. Weidenfeld was the only person to speak in favor of the proposal.

Election Date

Weidenfeld proposed changing the election date to the first Tuesday in November to allow enough time to campaign in all areas of the growing city.

Schlesinger supported the change, noting that with the current date, registration ends in August when many people are out of town or busy with other things. Putens and Isaacs also supported the change.

White disagreed. He claimed that changing the date would reduce what council could accomplish, since Thanksgiving and Christmas closely follow the proposed date. Coxon and Zugby also opposed the change.

Council Pay

Chernikoff proposed taking the issue of council's pay "out of council's hands where it shouldn't be" and determining council pay either through use of an independent pay commission or by placing proposed increases on the ballot.

No non-council members commented on the proposal. Weidenfeld said he wanted to consider the idea further but he believed that salaries are unreasonably low. White noted that Laurel voters recently rejected a council pay increase.

The proposed election changes will be on the agenda for the April 7 regular meeting of city council. White said council has more pressing business to attend to, and that changes, if any, should be considered by a charter review commission.

Report on Roosevelt Center Association

The Roosevelt Center Association (RCA), an association of merchants in Greenbelt's historic center, held a regular meeting on Monday, March 31, in the Group Room of Behavior Service Consultants, Inc. Issues discussed and acted upon were resuming joint advertising in the News Review, RCA's logo and its future use, RCA's mailing address (P.O. Box 864, Greenbelt, Md. 20770-0864), and urging the City Council to have signs installed on roads leading people to Greenbelt's Roosevelt Center. Re-examining the meeting times of the association and recruitment of more members are to be on the agenda for the next meeting.

The next regular meetings will be the second Thursday in April (April 10) at 7:30 a.m. in the Council Chambers of the Greenbelt City Hall and the last Monday in April (April 28) at 7:30 p.m. in the Group Room of Behavior Service Consultants, Inc.

Roosevelt Juniors Learn College Selection Process

The Guidance and English Departments will conduct a program for Eleanor Roosevelt High School juniors on "The College Selection Process" during the week of April 7. Class activities and guest speakers will help students explore college choices and complete the personal data necessary for an effective application. An evening program for parents and students on "The Parent's Role" will review the college application process at ERHS and offer a panel discussion by two senior parents and two senior students. The program will be held on Tuesday April 8, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Volunteers to Be Trained In Voter Registration

The State Administrative Board of Election Laws will begin a program of regularly scheduled Voter Registration Volunteer training sessions throughout Maryland on Tuesday, April 8. The sessions will teach volunteers to use the new statewide Voter Registration Application that became available January 1. The form is a result of legislation passed by the 1985 General Assembly to help increase Maryland's voter registration by easing the work of volunteers.

To become a voter registration volunteer, a person must be a registered voter in Maryland.

Training sessions will be held at Prince Georges Community College, Largo, at 7:30 p.m. on April 8, June 10, July 1, August 4 and September 30. Contact Paulette Davis, (301) 868-3897.

PWP Holds Orientation

Parents Without Partners, No-mad Chapter 1192, will hold an orientation for prospective new members on Friday, April 18, at 8 p.m. at the American Legion on Greenbelt Road. For information call 794-7091.

PGCC Offers Free

Course for Seniors

Prince Georges Community College is offering a free painting course for senior citizens.

"Painting I for Senior Citizens" a seven-session course beginning April 14 and ending June 2, will be held on Mondays, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m., at the Greenbelt Department of Recreation Youth Center.

Although the course is free, pre-registration is required. For additional information, call 322-0158.

Majestic Peacock Graces Greenbelt

by Dorrie Bates

She certainly had never seen anything like it before. Neither had her husband. Imagine looking out the back window in the morning while that all-important first cup of coffee brews, absent-mindedly cataloging the birds gathering around the seeds strewn on the back porch railing - mourning dove, cardinal, a few sparrows, peacock, blue jay . . . Peacock?

Such was the jolting experience of one Woodland Hills resident last Thursday when she discovered a full-fledged peacock making himself at home on her deck. It remained long after the coffee had dispelled the morning fog and fears of a nervous collapse. Yup - there was the peacock now, spreading his magnificent tail, clearly looking for a palatial lawn, the Taj Mahal perhaps, or at least an admiring peahen. Here in Greenbelt.

As the day wore on, numerous observers from the neighborhood came to admire the bird (no lady, that ain't no bird, that's a peacock!) which had now migrated across the street, finally choosing to put some space between himself and the hoi polloi by flying up into a tall pine tree. Betty Timer, remarking on never having seen a peacock fly, said that most "professional" peacocks have their wings clipped to keep them grounded. This one must have called in sick that day.

Friday, the peacock migrated west, exploring Boxwood before paying an extended courtesy call on the mayor. Sharon Weidenfeld took over the role as official hostess as the mayor was occupied with more mundane matters. There was time in the afternoon for a short press conference and "photo op"; camera crews from Channel 4, sporting the familiar peacock logo (which must have made the guest of honor feel right at home), prowled the rooftops searching for the perfect shot while Journal reporters busily scribbled. Word spread that a woman from Upper Marlboro was missing a similar bird. The peacock declined comment.

After a few more turns around the mayoral mansion, the peacock flew off in the direction of the Beltsville Farms, undoubtedly tired and eager for a little shut-eye (40,000 winks or so). The bird returned to the Weidenfelds for a brief visit Saturday morning and then departed. Greenbelters continued to keep a lookout for this regal creature while enjoying the presence of another important visitor, the Easter Bunny.

Since Saturday, more has come to light concerning this beautiful bird. According to Greenbelt Animal Warden Martha Fern, the peacock belongs to a Laurel man who has several peacocks and peahens. This one has flown away several times. The owner speculates that, being a different breed of peacock, this bird has not gotten along very well with the others and often searches for friendlier companions.

Warden Fern assures Greenbelt residents that the peacock poses no danger to anyone and can survive on the nuts and berries found throughout the area. She further suggests that rather than try to catch the bird, Greenbelters should simply enjoy the beauty of this magnificent bird.

AEROBICS CLASSES BEGIN

Lively Aerobics begins its spring session the week of April 14. The continuing regular classes meet at 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at nearby Good Luck Community Center at 6:30 on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Greenbelt Middle School. Classes are also offered at other locations in the area to meet everyone's schedule. Included are Cheverly Community Center, Beltsville Community Center and Beltsville Fire Hall. Regular classes are Lively Aerobics' most vigorous, fast-paced classes.

Lite & Lively classes are more moderately paced but provide a good workout for those just starting aerobics as well as physically-active people over 40.

PGCC Offers Business

Communication Course

Because communications in a small business can affect the productivity of employees and the volume of business a company receives, Prince Georges Community College is offering a communications course for small businesses.

"How to Handle the Many Kinds of Communications Needed in a Small Business," a two-session course, will be held from 7 until 10 p.m., Wednesdays, beginning April 9 and ending April 16 at the Springhill Lake Shopping Center Community Room. There is a fee.

For additional information, call 322-0797.

Craftspeople Needed

Craftspeople to demonstrate and/or sell traditional, hand-made items (wood, stone, pottery, jewelry, stained glass) are invited to reserve a space at the Fourth Annual Arts and Crafts Fair sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts Center and held in the Roosevelt Mall under the trees on Saturday, May 31, as part of the Greenbelt Day celebrations.

This year, Northern Virginia Blacksmiths Association will fill the area near the bank with craftsmen demonstrating their skills. They will also have a sculpture and art show in the lobby of the Utopia Theater.

Those interested in filling remaining spaces at the Fair should call Eileen Peterson, 345-2454, in the evening only or on weekend.

Bill to Establish Local Bus System Passes House

The House of Delegates passed and referred to the Senate a bill by Del. Joan Pitkin (D-PG) that would allow for expansion of Montgomery County's Ride-On bus system and establish a similar one in Prince Georges County. State aid would be available for the first time to these county-owned and operated bus systems.

If the General Assembly does not act in this legislative session the current law that provides for State aid for these local bus systems will end on July 1, 1986.

Del. Pitkin noted, "It is ironic that the much needed funds have already been authorized by the State for a Ride-On type service in Prince Georges County. These funds are not being used because the county has not yet established a bus system. The county is, however, in the process of evaluating a study of just such an intra-county bus service. Employment Centers have moved to Prince Georges County and with the change in commuting patterns the future is upon us."

CARES

Paul Fischetti gave a presentation to the counseling staff recently on the work of Virginia Satir, a family therapist. Paul illustrated his talk with a video tape depicting Dr. Satir's work with a family. The materials came from the Evolution of Psy-

City Asks Two Week Delay by County Planning Board on Greenbrook Plan

by Bob Hickman

At its March 24 meeting, the city council unanimously approved a motion to send a letter requesting the Prince Georges County Planning Board to defer their consideration of the Greenbrook site plan for two weeks, to give council time to make a recommendation on the stormwater management facility.

The planning board must find that the storm water management retention basin is either a visual amenity or a suitable active or passive recreation area as a condition of site plan approval, according to the city manager's written agenda comments for the March 24 regular council meeting. The comments noted that the condition was set when the county planning board accepted the dedication of land to be used in part for the storm water retention facility.

Attorney Richard Reed, speaking on behalf of the developers, asked the council if the amenity question could be addressed separately. "We're just anxious to try and separate the issues," Reed said.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld explained that the council had just recently received the plans for the stormwater management retention facility and that councilmembers need time to review the plans. The council would be asking the planning board to defer the topic for two weeks because of the delays caused to the city by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, which did not get the plans to the city on time, he said.

City Manager James Giese said that indications received by the city staff were that the planning board would be unwilling to defer the matter, and that it might be helpful to have a council member at the meeting on March 27. Weidenfeld agreed to attend the meeting.

A Horticultural Specialist?

In other action, council agreed to refer to staff the Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) report 3-86, recommending the employment of one person fully qualified in the field of horticulture.

In the staff comments provided to council, Giese said that he and the public works director have been assessing needs and are presently recruiting for a person with training and experience in horticulture. He expressed doubt that one person could be employed who is "fully qualified in the field of horticulture."

Council member Antoinette Bram asked for clarification of that comment. In reply, Giese said that horticulture is a very broad field and that it might be difficult to get someone fully qualified in all of its disciplines.

Giese also stated in the staff comments that the existing parks crew has performed very well during the past year and noted that the voters in the last election survey gave one of the highest ratings to the city's maintenance of flower beds.

Council member Thomas White noted that the survey was conducted ten months ago and suggested that the survey results be made available to the public as soon as possible.

Council Procedures

Under new business, a resolution was introduced for a first reading which would change procedures at council meetings so that ordinances and resolutions would be considered first, then other matters of interest to the public, with the matters of most interest considered first.

The resolution also would provide for some routine items to be put on a consent agenda which would be considered together to expedite proceedings. Any council member would be able to remove an item from the consent agenda for separate consideration.

The council also voted three to two to table a motion by Council member Joseph Isaacs to provide sidewalk repairs at the Roosevelt Center within 90 days. "What are we waiting for? . . . This is not merely a matter of aesthetics. It is a public safety concern," said Isaacs.

While the council has considered sidewalks to be first priority, replied Bram. "If you piecemeal it, you'll get more of what's there now."

Putens added that no member of council has been against the sidewalk repair, and that it is not a new issue. He moved to table the motion so that it could be addressed by citizens groups at the next council meeting, with copies of Isaac's comments provided.

Bond Market Concerns

At the suggestion of Bram, council discussed briefly the status of municipal bonds and the impacts of recent Congressional actions on the city.

City Solicitor Robert Manzi said that he heard on the radio that a provision in a Senate bill that would have taxed municipal bonds was defeated. He said that the only remaining worry was the Rostenkowski bill to limit bonds, which would substantially reduce the amount of industrial revenue bonds for a given area. According to Manzi, this bill if enacted would hurt Prince Georges County and indirectly affect the city by limiting economic development. It would also severely restrict the types of projects for which the city could use its bond revenues.

Giese said that while the federal bills being proposed are currently disrupting bond programs, he did not think this would affect the city bond issue. He also thought at some point in the future a window may open to issue bonds without whatever restrictions come out of the current proposals.

Tillie Frank

Council agreed to schedule a work session to evaluate a staff memo on the impact of the state's so-called Tillie Frank legislation. Staff comments to council noted that the Tillie Frank case was a lawsuit which resulted in the Maryland Court of Appeals voiding a municipal regulation that conflicted with a county regulation. The comments stated that the Maryland Legislature later amended the section of the code to allow municipalities to exempt themselves from the provisions of county legislation, within certain limitations.

Council directed that the staff memo be provided to the Prince Georges Municipal Association (PGMA), which had requested municipalities to review the county regulations and determine in which areas the city intends to exempt itself from county provisions. City staff had also recommended that the city solicitor review the city code and recommend changes.

Other Actions

Council unanimously approved the appointment of Barbara Hoelk as a nonvoting member of PRAB. Hoelk is moving from the city and must resign as a voting member.

Council accepted, for future consideration, a PRAB report which recommends that the city enter into an agreement with Springhill Lake apartment management. Under the proposal, Springhill Lake would donate $5,000 to the city each year to be used for the operation of Springhill Lake Recreation Center, in return for automatic club membership in the Recreation Department to all residents of Springhill Lake with a photo I.D. pool pass.

The Lion's Roar

by Emory Harmon

The Greenbelt Lions Club President, Joseph Wilkinson is a 100% King Lion as the result of the local Lion's Club tremendous 1985-86 year of Lionism.

The year has been so fantastic that all of the club's requirements were met by the end of March. King Lion Joe will receive this award plus the special district Governor's award at the district 22-C Lion's Club Convention at Virginia Beach on May 5-8.

Once again, the Lion's Club thanks the community for the tremendous support given them throughout the year. None of these awards would be possible without your generous support on White Cane Days, patronizing the Lion's Booth on Labor Day, contributing to "Toys for Tots" Christmas program, donations of countless Eyeglasses, and other Lion's Club activities.

Released by the Greenbelt
Police Department

A man was reported to have been offering cookies to young children about 5 p.m. March 23 in the 9100 block of Edmonston Court to induce them to go to an unknown location with him. Responding officers were unable to locate the man, who was described as white, in his 60s, 5'10", 140 lbs., slim build, gray hair, possibly wearing glasses, dressed in gray slacks and a long-sleeved shirt. Anyone with information concerning these occurrences is requested to contact the Greenbelt Police Investigative Section at 474-7200.

About 4 p.m., March 27 a man approached a young seven-year-old baby sitter with two younger children in the vicinity of 3 Parkway and attempted to induce them to go into a nearby apartment with him. They refused to go with him. He was described as white, age 35, height unknown, heavy build, wearing baggy tan pants, tan jacket, striped shirt and possibly glasses.

A 20-year-old female reported that about 6:30 p.m., March 26 she was grabbed from behind while walking in the 400 block of Ridge Road by a young man who said he was going to rape her. She broke free when a passing motorist approached and the suspect fled on foot. He was described as white, age 18 to 23, 5'8", 170 lbs., brown hair.

While on routine patrol about 3:30 a.m., March 27 on Lakeside Drive at Lakeview Circle, Pfc. Christopher Field found himself about to be struck head-on by a reckless driver on the wrong side of the roadway traveling at a high rate of speed. Pfc. Field performed an evasive maneuver to avoid a head-on collision, but was struck on the driver's side of the marked police vehicle. The driver of the striking vehicle continued up Lakeside Drive until he struck a fire hydrant at 24 Lakeside, then fled the scene. A 20-year-old resident of the 44 Court of Ridge Road was subsequently arrested and incarcerated pending court action. Pfc. Field escaped injury.

A purse was stolen from a Mitchellville, Maryland woman about 6 p.m., March 20 while at Jasper's Restaurant in Greenway Center. The victim did not see the suspect remove the purse, which was hanging on the back of her chair.

A teen-age male was the victim of a strong-arm robbery about 6 p.m., March 25 at the Springhill Lake Shopping Center. Two teen-agers threatened to assault the victim if he did not give them money. Officer Maria Arthur arrested two local juveniles for the offense.

About 6:30 p.m., March 26 a 27-year-old female was assaulted by a male in the Beltway Plaza parking lot after the two became engaged in a dispute over a parking space. The suspect and an accomplice left the scene but were located by investigating officers who advised the complainant to apply for an arrest warrant.

Officer David Buerger arrested a 30-year-old non-resident man at the Roosevelt Center about 11:30 p.m., March 26 for an alcoholic beverage violation. He was released pending a court appearance.

A single family home on Lakeside Drive was forcibly entered through a dining room window on March 24. A VCR and other property was stolen.

About 3:30 p.m., March 27 two B-B shots were fired through a bedroom window at 131 Westway.

A 1984 Ford Escort, stolen from Market Lane on March 22, was recovered on March 24 by Greenbelt officers in the 7700 block of Lakeside Drive.

A 1968 AMC Rebel, white over green, Maryland registration HFK329 was stolen during the morning of March 24 from the 16 Court of Ridge Road.

An unlocked auto was entered on March 20 in the 7900 block of Mandan Road and a Jennings Arms .22 caliber handgun was stolen from the unlocked glove box.

Greenbelt Boys & Girls Club's indoor soccer team is "the best team on the Eastern Shore" after defeating the Ocean City team.

Greenbelt Takes Soccer Trophy

by Kevin Wheatley

Congratulations are in order for the victorious Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's indoor soccer team.

The team, coached by Jane Cosner, did our town proud last week, by defeating the Ocean City select team on their home court, against a loud home-team crowd.

It was a very emotional event. Those who witnessed the game surely will remember how the two teams battled through two sudden-death periods and then had to face a shootout to determine the winner. And who could forget how the Ocean City team and the fans in the arena, before the final sudden death period, rose and gave to us a long standing ovation in tribute to the way we played against one of the best teams on the Eastern Shore.

They were telling us, through their ovation, that win or lose, we had earned their respect and admiration. Goalkeeper Johnathan Murray had an outstanding tournament, making unbelievable saves time after time. His poise and concentration helped him play "scholarship" worthy soccer. Another standout, Jason Harbin, was the offensive goal-scoring machine of the tournament. Of the 25 goals scored during the three-day event, Jason had 11, including three "hat tricks" . . . simply amazing! Other team scorers were as follows: T. J. Trimble-1, Shawn Wilson-1, Miguel Boardman-Pereira-2, Marc Selawy-2, Adam Wheatley-5 and the winning goal for the Championship was scored by Greg Hunanian! Many thanks to the Boys and Girls Club Board of Directors for allowing the team to participate in this event by funding their housing and food, even though it created a drain on the money supply for the club.

Our little team so impressed the people involved in the tournament that they invited us to bring back not one, but three different age group teams for next year.

Of course to be able to undertake such a task requires a lot of financial help from the business community. We would need to charter a bus, obtain a place to sleep and of course, eat. If the Greenbelt area businesses could collectively pull together and help us out a lot of Greenbelt children would be allowed to participate in an event that would affect their childhood memories for the rest of their lives.

We do need your help . . . we really do!

Free Assistance for State Taxes Is Available Now

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reminded taxpayers still working on their state returns that a wide range of free state tax assistance will be available between now and the April 15 filing deadline.

"Our state tax experts will stay on duty to help taxpayers during two upcoming state holidays, certain Saturday mornings and Monday evenings and until late at night on the filing deadline," Mr. Goldstein said.

The extra hours of assistance are as follows:

Saturday, April 5, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.; Monday, April 7, 4:30-7 p.m. (telephone assistance only); Saturday, April 12, 9 a.m.-1 p.m.; Monday, April 14, 4:30-7 p.m. (telephone assistance only); and Deadline, Tuesday, April 15, 8:30 a.m.-9 p.m.

"These extra hours of free state tax help are for your convenience. So if you have any questions or need any forms, call or visit us and we'll be glad to help. We'll even complete your Maryland income tax return for you free of charge. Just be sure to bring along a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements. And don't forget your yellow address label on your state tax packet. Using it can speed up your state refund by three to five days," Goldstein said. The statewide toll-free number for free state assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

North End School Usage, Cost Debated at Council

by Sid Kastner

The question of where, in the city's list of priorities, the North End School should come promises to be a continuing issue for some time. This was evident as the subject was a major topic of debate at the regular city council meeting on March 24. Proponents, neutralists and opponents of the school's rehabilitation again brought forth their arguments, some heard before but some new points also being made. Among the latter was a possibility that a senior citizen's center at the school might pull in a matching grant from the county and/or state.

The discussion was triggered by a formal motion by Mayor pro tem Thomas White, to hold a public hearing during April "on priorities and preferences for the various projects" contemplated by the city.

In response to White's motion, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld noted that council recently voted to obtain information on those projects as a first step, so that he could not support the motion. Councilmember Edward Putens asked City Manager James Giese what the present status of this information-collecting process was. Giese estimated that it would take at least six months to have some comparisons of North End school renovation against the other proposed projects.

White continued that he was concerned about this "open-ended" time frame, saying "I'm not too confident that council or staff will pursue these things," and that present council and staff preferences appear to be the police station, public works building, youth center and municipal building renovation with the school not included, "so I think the staff input should be balanced by citizen input . . . so the citizens can provide their responses to the council and staff recommendation." Weidenfeld took issue with the coupling of council with staff, stating "the staff's recommendation on budget is not the council's recommendation."

Resident Ann Pisano took the floor to speak in support of utilization of the school. She told council "I believe you said that after the bond referendum you would have a priority list and I think the citizens should participate in that list." Weidenfeld replied that he agreed "but we don't yet have information on costs, where a senior citizens' center should be—we have to have a realistic estimate."

Pisano continued that "some of those questions (in the informational process will take up to two years according to Mr. Giese, and we're not going to have much money left after the police station (but) $250,000 has already been allocated to the school, with $120,000 more coming from the five-cent tax appropriation; then about $200,000 more could come from the (county) Department of Aging. I've spoken to many people, and they would very much like to have the senior citizens' center up there (at North End school)."

In response to her contention that funds already slated for the school would be dissipated ("oozing out") in other projects, Weidenfeld said "there's no money being spent at this moment" and reiterated that "nobody is arguing against any of these projects."

The discussion then was again taken up within the council itself. Councilmember Joseph Isaacs spoke for holding the public hearing so that citizens such as Pisano and others could make their views known. White again said that the manager had "laid out in his memorandum (to council) what were his priorities—so the citizens should have their opportunity."

On the other hand Putens stated "It was always my contention that the police station would cost about two million dollars (so) until I have the answers from staff as to costs I'm not going to make my decisions."

Councilmember Antoinette Bram said "I believe the police and safety should have priority over any others logically" and described the origin in India of the "white elephant" term—maharajahs giving gifts of expensive- upkeep white elephants to their enemies—suggesting this as an allegory for the school.

Staff Views

Giese clarified his position with respect to the staff's priorities, which he described as being "essentially my priorities; I consider the new police station, public works building, youth center and municipal building renovations all as priorities, due to - bulging at the seams." As to the North End school, it's not a case of financing but of determination of what to use it for. We don't have uses that would fill the very large space of the school—the senior citizens' center would fill only a small part. I don't see justification for renovating a building that we don't know how to use." White responded that "there have been any number of proposals from citizens for use of the school, for example day care, arts and crafts, and many others."

Going back to the immediate issue of a public hearing chairman Keith Chernikoff of the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board called such a hearing "an essential part of the commitment that the city made to citizens so that they would have an opportunity to shape the list of priorities."

Weidenfeld replied that "nobody's disagreeing with the idea of a public hearing—it's the timeliness of the hearing; in my view a delay of several months is necessary (so) we could have one public hearing with all the information and with rational ideas of what money is available."

After Isaacs again supported having the hearing and Bram a-

Road Improvements

ers, such as revenue bonds, without the city's approval

The cost of the Parkway overpass and ramp improvements totals $3,960,000 plus $200,000 allocated by the State for design work. The county hopes to be reimbursed by the federal government but the outcome is uncertain.

The Parkway reconstruction program has been on hold for years. The delay has been due to Congressional inaction in passing legislation that would keep the Parkway under Federal jurisdiction rather than under Maryland's control. Finally, in the last Congressional session this was accomplished. Three million dollars was also released for design work. Karen Johansen, press secretary for Congressman Steny Hoyer, said he views the Parkway as "top priority." The next step will be obtaining Congressional approval for release of construction funds.

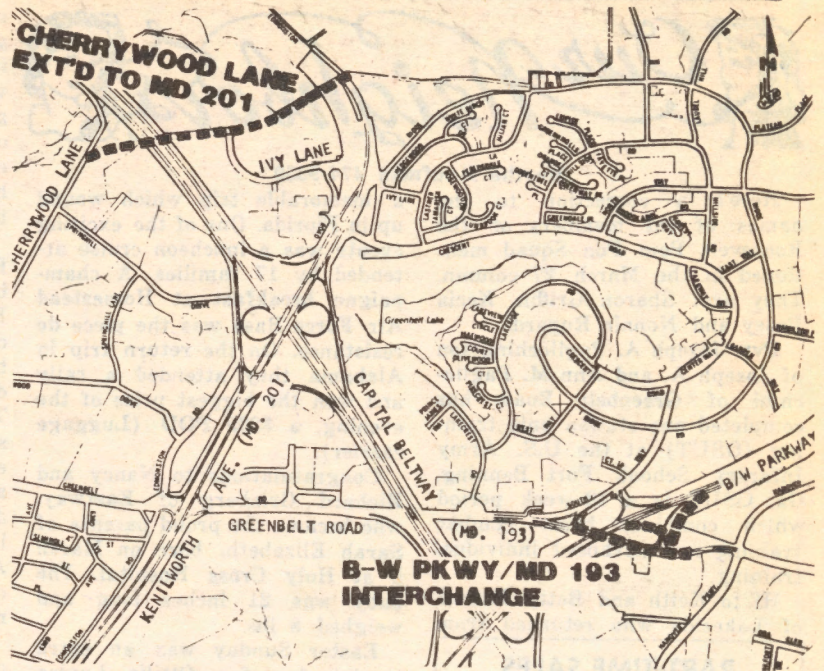

Greenbelt Metro Roads

Funds are also contained in the bond issue for the construction of a 52-foot-wide roadway from the Greenbelt Metro Station on Cherrywood Lane, with a bridge spanning the Beltway to a junction with Kenilworth Avenue (Md. 201) approximately 550 feet north of Ivy Lane. A traffic signal at Kenilworth Avenue is also included. Some $5,400,000 will be allocated for the project of which $2,352,000 will come from Maryland Department of Transportation bonds which have already been sold and gain argued that "without the dollars we can't do it." White introduced a different aspect of the subject. He noted that the North End school "is the only project I've heard about that has a possibility of getting outside funding" and asked Giese if funds could be obtained from the Department of Aging. When Giese replied in the affirmative that there did exist a grant for funds to set up senior centers in schools, White said he was getting concerned about "possible missed opportunity" and that this feature had the potential of not eating away at the bond proceeds.

Putens agreed that this was a good point, and in reply to his questions city administrator assistant, Michael McLaughlin, informed the council that such a matching grant could provide up to $200,000; however a city proposal would have to be a serious one, with a "follow through," in order to be seriously considered and approved

After the evenings' discussion, council finally came back to considering the original motion by White to hold a public hearing. The motion failed on a vote of three to two, White and Isaacs being in the minority.

Two major road projects in Greenbelt have been targeted, by Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening, as indicated by the heavy dashed lines in the above map. Funding for the projects would come from a $117 million bond issue proposed by Glendening (see article).

the remaining $3,048,000 will be coming from the county.

According to Glendening, the bond issue will serve a secondary function by freeing $16 million now held as part of the Tax Incremental Funding (TIF) Districts and earmarking it for education. Glendening earlier promised to spend $40 million more this year for the school system, including the magnet school programs designed to end a desegregation suit in the county.

He explained, "By using a bond issue rather than TIF funds, we can accomplish all that we would have undertaken with TIF funds, but will be able to do so much sooner."

"TIF, which was established during the TRIM era when there was no other way of financing infrastructure improvements "can be used for any public purpose" said Tim Ayers, press secretary for Glendening.

Other projects to be built with the bond proceeds include a new criminal court complex in Upper Marlboro ($25 million), improvements to Fire Department facilities ($4,590,000), planning for a northern regional health center ($410,000) a new library for the Largo-Kettering area and expansion of Laurel Library ($3,575,000), and the purchase of new Metro buses ($1,500,000).

ANNUAL BAY BRIDGE DAY SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 13

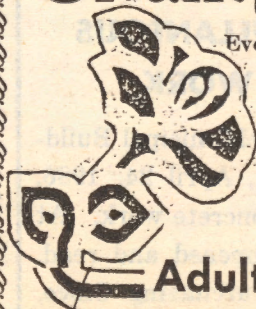

The twelfth annual Bay Bridge Day will be held on Sunday, April 13. During the event, which has become a Maryland tradition, the eastbound span of the William Preston Lane, Jr. Memorial Bridge (Bay Bridge) will be closed to traffic and opened to pedestrians for a 4.3-mile walk across the Chesapeake Bay. The walk is free to the public.

Parking for those taking part in the walk will be available at the Navy-Marine Corps Stadium, Annapolis, and at the Anne Arundel Community College located on College Parkway off Maryland, Route 2 (Ritchie Highway) in Arnold.

Free continuous round-trip shuttle bus service between the parking areas and the bridge will begin at 9 a.m., with the last buses scheduled to leave for the bridge at 1 p.m.

Hi to Keith and Betty Petroff of Lakeside who returned from a memorable trip which wound up in Florida. One of the exciting events was a luncheon cruise attended by 17 families. A champagne breakfast at Homestead Air Force Base was the piece de resistance. On the return trip in Alabama they attended a rally and won the biggest prize of the evening, a $239 POD (Luggage carrier).

Congratulations to Nancy and Richard Grinberg of Eastway, who became the proud parents of Sarah Elizabeth, born on March 5 at Holy Cross Hospital. The baby was 21 inches long and weighed 8 lbs.

Easter Sunday was an extra special day for Ottilie Louise Norris of Green Ridge House. Debi and Patrick Shanahan presented her with her 32nd great-grandchild, Kelly Louise, weighing in at 8 lbs. 3 oz. Mrs. Norris was honored to have the new grandchild take her middle name of Louise. The proud grandparents, Alverta and Larry Shanahan were thrilled to welcome their 10th grandchild.

Greenbelters Tillie Wetter and Pearl Tubiash and former Greenbelt Evelyn Kaplan flew to Florida on March 16 to board the cruise ship Atlantic for a Caribbean tour. They sailed for 10 days and stopped at five ports. The highlight of the trip was the sight of Halley's Comet early each morning between 4 and 5 a.m. Also aboard were several distinguished scientists, including Maj. Gen. Michael Collins, the Apollo Astronaut, who lectured on comets, galaxies, etc. A most memorable and exciting trip.

Airman Jeanne Fama, daughter of Giovanni and Sally A. Fama of Breezewood Terrace, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft armament course at Lowry Air Force Base, Colorado. During the course, students were taught to inspect and maintain fire control systems in heavy bomber aircraft. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force. Fama is a 1984 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School.

Md. Comptroller Explains Pension Exclusion Benefit

According to Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, many retirees in Prince Georges County have been asking about the treatment of Social Security benefits on the State return and how the treatment relates to Maryland's unique pension exclusion benefit.

"Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits are not subject to the Maryland Income Tax," said Goldstein. "If you had to report any amount of Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits as income on your federal return, you can continue to exempt those benefits from state tax on the state return in two easy steps. First, report the amount on line 21b of your federal return to line 38 of your Maryland return. Then subtract that amount on line 56. Both lines are clearly labeled for this purpose."

The comptroller added that Maryland's unique pension exclusion continues to allow taxpayers who are 65 or older - or totally disabled - to exclude up to $8,500 from their taxable income for 1985. "But Social Security recipients, in particular, should keep in mind that if they claim the pension exclusion, they must reduce the exclusion by any amount of Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits they received in 1985 - not the amount they exempted from state tax, using lines 38 and 56 on the Maryland long Form 502," he said.

He added that Maryland's pension exclusion appears at the bottom of the back of Maryland long Form 502, and it is fully explained on page 19 of the state tax packet instructions.

A MEMO TO MY CUSTOMERS —

From Mr. Johnson, the repair technician to call in this neighborhood when your VCR or TV or HiFi is sick. I do over 90% of my VCR & TV repairwork in your home on one visit. VCR repairs especially should be done in your home, because so many VCR faults are minor, AND/OR RELATED to your TV and antenna. I repair all brands, and visit this neighborhood 3 days each week as well as some evenings and weekends.
